Chicago Society, in conjunction with the Federalist Society of the UChicago Law School and the Committee on Social Thought, presents:

Harvey C. Mansfield: Science and Non-Science in Liberal Education

Join us for an hour lecture with Professor Harvey C. Mansfield of Harvard University, about the perceived purposes and values of science and non-science.

Professor Mansfield is a distinguished scholar of Machiavelli and de Tocqueville, recipient of the 2004 National Humanities Medal from the president, and presenter of the 2007 Jefferson Lecture in Washington DC.

Professor Mansfield currently serves as the William R Kenan Jr. Professor of Government at Harvard University.

Date: Monday, February 18th
Time: 5:00 pm – 6:00 pm
Location: Swift Hall, third floor lecture room